Gowns for Universal Wear on View at Last

This is the "Polymuriel" the convertible gown suitable for all occasions. It has been a long time in preparation by Mrs. Mildred Johnston Landone after the design by Miss Jessie Rosefield, who captured the $150 prize offered by the "Polymuriel Committee" in competition with more than 3,000 others, who had ideas as to what a dress of the sort should look like. The novelty of the "Polymuriel" lies in its reversibility. The under part is made in two pieces, opening down the front to the waist line, in order that it may be donned conveniently. The smoking allows for fullness over the bust. Yoke, panel, belt and tunic are made in one piece, detachable for the purpose of reversing. The plain side, helped by an attractive collar and cuffs, is suitable for business wear. The kaleidoscopic quality of the gown which makes it suitable for evening and other wear, is obtained by shifting the waist line up almost to the armpits or down to the hips, removing the lower part of the sleeves deleting the panels and the drop skirt, as well as by other devices.
At the left the "Polymuriel" is shown in all its completeness. In the center the waist line has been brought up almost to the armpits, the back of the Polymuriel has been brought to the front, and the lower part of the sleeves have been removed. At the right, the panels of the "Polymuriel" have been removed, the belt has been brought down to the hips and the drop skirt has been removed, revealing pantalettes edged with fur.

BRISTOL

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BRISTOL, VA., December 18.—At Fall Branch, Washington County, Tenn., on Wednesday, Miss Nellie Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moulton, of that community, became the bride of J. H. Minnich. The nuptials were solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Goble, of Bristol, were among the guests, having made the trip in their automobile. Mrs. Goble is a cousin of the bride.
Another marriage of interest this week was that of Miss Tivis E. McAllen and Charles Bennett White, the latter of near Charlottesville. This marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McAllen, in Bristol, and was witnessed by a large number of guests. The young couple have gone on a bridal trip, which is to include New York.
The Sullins College Chapel was the scene of a pleasing musical event on Thursday evening. A large number of the friends of the school, especially those interested in the music department, were in attendance. The program consisted of Christmas carols and readings. Among those participating in the program were: Miss Ethel Newberry, Miss Zella Maiden, Miss Glenna King, Miss Lydia Hays, Miss Miriam Robinson, Miss Elizabeth Wiley, Miss Ethel Carroll, Miss Louise Clark, Miss Cleo Everett, Miss Mary Bones and Miss Hattie Hyder.

PULASKI

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
PULASKI, VA., December 18.—One of the entertaining social functions of the week was the meeting of the Round Dose Club, Mrs. Percival Johnson being hostess. The home decorations for the festive season, roses and carnations of red, chrysanthemums of white, holly and mistletoe, with their berries of red and white, attractively arranged made a typical Christmas setting for the meeting. The guests of Mrs. Johnson were: Mesdames J. N. Bosang, Jr., T.

A. Martin, and Misses Lillian Orlesby, Charlotte Trolinger, Nancy Gibson, Viola and Margaret Bosang.
The members of the Afternoon Auction Club enjoyed an unusually pleasant afternoon Saturday when entertained by Miss Julia Gill Robinson. Those playing were Mesdames Robert C. Graham, William S. Gilmer, F. C. Robinson, J. C. Morehead, R. C. Kunkel, F. E. Banker, M. D. Lankhorne and D. Graham Robinson, Misses Mary Wyser, Katie Miller and Eta Lee.
